Contact a site's webmaster

To remove content from a website, you usually need to contact the webmaster, the person who owns the website. Even if you found the content using Google, Google doesn't control the content on the site.

Why contact the webmaster?

Even if Google deletes the site or image from our search results, the page still exists on the site. This means it can be found through the URL to the site, social media sharing, or other search engines.

Your best option is to contact the webmaster because they can remove the page entirely.

Note: If a photo or information shows up in Google search results, it just means that the information exists on the Internet and it doesn't mean that Google endorses it.

How to contact a webmaster

There are several ways to contact the owner of a site:

1. Contact us link: Find a "Contact us" link or an email address for the webmaster. This information is often on the site's homepage.
2. Find contact information using Whois: You can perform a Whois (who is?) search for the site owner using Google. Go to google.com and search for whois www.example.com. The email address to contact the webmaster can often be found under "Registrant Email" or "Administrative Contact."
3. Contact the site's hosting company: The Whois search result usually includes information about who hosts the website. If you're unable to reach the webmaster, try to contact the site's hosting company.

If the webmaster has already made the changes you requested to a site that appears in our search results, you can ask that we remove outdated information by sending a webpage removal request.

Removing Content From Google

This page will help you get to the right place to report content that you would like removed from Google's services under applicable laws. Providing us with complete information will help us investigate your inquiry.

If you have non-legal issues that concern Google's Terms of Service or Product Policies, please visit <http://support.google.com>

We ask that you submit a separate notice for each Google service where the content appears.

What Google product does your request relate to? Google Search

Which product does your request relate to? Google Search

Even if Google removes a webpage or image from our search results, we are not able to remove content from websites that host it. The page may still exist on the website and this means it can be found through the URL to the website, social media sharing, or other search engines. We recommend reaching out to the website owner to request removal.

Access this page to learn more about how to contact a website owner.

Even if you successfully request removal of one URL, the content you're trying to remove may also appear in our search results under other URLs. If this is the case, you can simply submit additional removal requests—one for each URL that displays this content.

Find an image URL

Removed image or page still appearing?

If one of your removal requests has been marked as 'Removed' but you still see that content in our search results, double-check whether the URL that's appearing in our search results is exactly the same as the one you submitted for removal (including capitalization). If not, you should request removal of the additional URL(s) that still appear in search results.

Also check to see if your removal requests have expired in the Remove URLs tool.

Removals and SafeSearch reports Tool

Temporarily block search results from your site, or manage SafeSearch filtering

The Removals tool enables you to temporarily block pages from Google Search results on sites that you own, see a history of removal requests from both property owners and non-owners, and also to see any URLs on your site that were reported as containing adult content.

To remove content on sites that you don't own, see this page.

Contents:

- Temporarily block URLs on your site
- See history of removal requests
- See URLs on your site reported as adult content

Temporarily block URLs on your site

Follow this procedure to temporarily block a URL on your site from appearing in Google Search results.

When to use this tool

- You have a URL on a Search Console property that you own, and you need to take it off Google Search quickly. You must take additional steps to remove the URL permanently. The URL to remove can be for a web page or an image.
- You've updated the page to remove sensitive content, and want Google to reflect the change in Search results.

When not to use this tool

- To block a page on a property that you don't own. See If you don't control the page.

Remove outdated content

Important: If you've already made a change to a live page, you don't need to fill out the form.

If content was deleted from a site but still shows up in Google search results, the page description or cache might be outdated. To request a removal of outdated content:

1. Go to the Remove outdated content page.
2. Enter the URL (web address) of the page that has the outdated content you want to remove.
3. Select Request removal.

- If you see the message "We think the image or web page you're trying to remove hasn't been removed by the site owner," follow the onscreen steps to give us more information.
- If you see the message "This content is no longer live on the website," select Request Removal.

You can check the status of your request on the Remove outdated content page.

- To permanently remove a URL from Search. Use the Removals tool as part of this process to remove a URL permanently. This tool is just one step in the process.
- To remove content from the internet. This tool removes content only from Google Search.
- To remove results from other search engines. This tool removes content only from Google Search.
- To clean up cruft, like old pages that 404. If you recently changed your site and now have some outdated URLs in the index, Google's crawlers will see this as we recrawl your URLs, and those pages will naturally drop out of our search results. There's no need to request an urgent update.
- To address crawl errors from your Search Console account. The blocking tool blocks URLs from Google's search results, not from your Search Console account. You don't need to manually remove URLs from this report; they will drop out naturally over time.
- To "start from scratch" with your site. If you're worried that your site might have a manual action, or you want to start with a clean slate after purchasing a domain from someone else, we recommend filing a reconsideration request letting us know what you're worried about and what has changed.
- To take your site "offline" after being hacked. If your site was hacked and you want to get rid of bad URLs that got indexed, use the URL blocking tool to block any new URLs that the hacker created—for example, <http://www.example.com/buy-cheap-cialis-skq3w598.html>. But we don't recommend blocking your entire site, or blocking URLs that you'll eventually want indexed. Instead, clean up the hacking and let us recrawl your site. More information about dealing with a hacked site.
- To get the right "version" of your site indexed. Many sites make the same HTML content or files available via different URLs. If you do this, and don't want duplicates to appear in search results, review our recommended methods of canonicalization. Don't use the URL tool to block the URLs you don't want in search results. It won't keep your favorite version of a page; instead, could remove all versions (<http>/<https> and www/non-www) of a URL.

Block a URL

Very important notes:

- A successful request lasts only about six months. After that, your information can appear on Google search results (see Making removal permanent).
- Blocking a URL does not prevent Google from crawling your page, only from showing it in Search results. When you request a temporary block of a URL, Google can continue to crawl the URL if it exists and isn't blocked by another method (such as a noindex tag). Because of this, it is possible that your page can be crawled and cached again before you remove or password-protect your page, and can appear in search results after your temporary blackout expires.
- If your URL is unreachable by Google (404, 502/3) when you use this tool, it will assume that the page is gone, and your block request will expire. Any page found at that URL at a later time will be considered a new page that can appear in Google Search results.

To temporarily block a URL from Google Search, or update Google's view when a page has changed:

1. The URL must be in a Search Console property that you own. If it's not, follow these instructions instead.
2. Open the Removals tool [\[icon\]](#).
3. Select the Temporary Removals tab.
4. Click New Request.
5. Select either Temporarily remove URL or Clear cached URL:

6 months
Plaintiff's Google Evidence 06

a. Temporarily remove URL

b. Clear cached URL

EXHIBIT
#167

6. Select Next to complete the process. The request usually takes up to a day to process, and is not guaranteed to be accepted. Check back to see the status of the request. If your request has been denied, click Learn more to learn why.
7. Submit additional removal requests for any additional URLs that might point to the same page, as well as any variations in URL casing that your server handles. For example, all the following URLs might point to the same page:
 - example.com/mypage
 - example.com/MyPage
 - example.com/page?1234
8. To make your removal permanent, read the next sections.

Find the correct URL for blocking

Here's how to find the correct URL to submit to the tool in order to block it in Search results.

Web page URL

Image URL

Make your removal permanent

The Removals tool provides only a temporary removal of about six months. To remove content or a URL from Google search permanently:

1. Take one of the following actions to remove the page permanently:
 - Remove or update the content on your site (images, pages, directories) and make sure that your web server returns either a 404 (Not Found) or 410 (Gone) HTTP status code. Non-HTML files (like PDFs) should be completely removed from your server. (Learn more about HTTP status codes)
 - Block access to the content, for example by requiring a password.
 - Indicate that the page should not be indexed using the `noindex` meta tag. This is less secure than the other methods.
 - Do not use robots.txt as a blocking mechanism.
2. If you blocked the page before removing your content permanently (step 1), unblock and then reblock the page. This clears the page from the index, if it was recrawled after blocking.

Cancel a request

If you want to cancel your temporary block from search results:

1. Open the Removals tool.
2. Find your request in the history table.

REGULATION CF CAMPAIGN IS LIVE

WorthPoint Corp is now accepting investments

Hello ,

On Monday, we announced the launch of our Title III Regulation Crowdfunding campaign, which allows accredited and non-accredited investors the chance to purchase stock in our company. WorthPoint is seeking to raise $1,000,000 in this offering through Regulation CF, with a minimum raise of $100,000. This opportunity is available for a limited time with a minimum investment of $100.

To learn more and make an investment, please visit the campaign page by clicking the link below.

After several months of Testing the Waters in order to gauge interest from potential investors, we are beyond excited to announce that WorthPoint's offering statement has been qualified by the SEC and WorthPoint is now able to accept investments in a Regulation A+ offering. The stock offering is taking place on WorthPoint's website, and the chance to own a piece of WorthPoint is available to everyone -- accredited and non-accredited investors alike.

As some of you may know, WorthPoint recently undertook a different crowdfunding round under Regulation Crowdfunding. Upon being qualified by the SEC, we decided to terminate that round early in favor of this larger Regulation A+ round, which allows for more flexible investment options both for you as an investor and WorthPoint as a company.

WorthPoint offers the world's largest resource for identifying, researching, and valuing antiques, art, and vintage collectibles using disruptive technology. As a first mover, WorthPoint has built an irreplaceable database and a proven, scalable business model.

The wait is over. We look forward to your investment.
Make your mark with WorthPoint today.

To the E Bay Staff,

My name is Annamarie Trombetta. I am an artist and I received an e-mail that informed me about a website named Worthpoint.com.

When I googled me name Annamarie Trombetta I found this Marilyn Monroe link below. At the bottom of the Maryiln Monroe link is a link to a painting that Worthpoint is stating that I painted. My biography is listed in great detail, however I did NOT paint this image.

Please review the information below. I am requesting a response as soon as possible.

Here is the e-mail that my contact forwarded to me from Worthpoint

NOV 16, 2015 | 08:35AM EST

Anita B. replied:

Hello,

We do not buy or sell anything on the site. Rather, we buy sales records from various auction houses and sites and compile them into a price guide to help users determine the value of antiques and collectibles.

If this particular item sold on EBay, I recommend trying to contact EBay, as they may be able to provide you with the additional information you are seeking.

Kind Regards,

The WorthPoint Team

ITEM REVIEW REQUEST

WorthPoint is a web site for collectors and consumers that provides price history and other information for all types of collectible items. These items are not for sale by WorthPoint.

We license the data displayed in the Worthopedia from a variety of sources. We are an official licensee of eBay and many of the leading auction houses. Our agreements permit us to display all art, antiques and collectible items - with full attribution - that are contained in eBay's and the respective auction house partners' product catalogs, along with the price paid for such item. Our licenses permit our members to use completed sales results and images displayed on the Worthopedia solely for research purposes. You may review our content policy here.

If you believe you own the rights to the image/item and prefer it not be displayed, do not complete the form provided here. Instead, request removal here.

Item Review

If you believe the item listed on the previous page is fraudulent or otherwise inappropriate for view, please supply the information requested below.

Reason for review

The URL above is incorrect and the information is not legitimate. My name and biography were used in this fake advertisement. Your ad from your website is coming up on the internet under my name, I am not the artist. Your listing is FALSE and the ad states there are 12 photos in the description but no photos are visible except a signature - that is NOT mine. Please remove this immediately.

Additional Items

If you believe additional items which were listed on the previous page are also inappropriate, please provide the URL and a brief description of the item.

Additional Items

If you have additional items listed in Worthopedia which you believe present infringement issues, you can either repeat the above process for each item or complete the information below:

Work(s) believed to be infringed (please include trademark registration or application number with each)

Listed on your website at the URL above is an ad for an Original Oil Painting from 1972. My name and self written biography from my website was used without my consent or knowledge. I am requesting that your infringing ad on your website be permanently removed. This information is fraudulent. Your company is claiming that I am the artist who painted the Original Oil Man With Red Umbrella in 1972. I did not paint this oil. I would have been 9 years old. PLEASE remove this false listing from your website and the internet immediately.

Dear Mr. Seippel and Mr. Watkins,

Allow me to introduce myself to you Mr. Seippel. I am professional artist Annamarie Trombetta. I as well as other people found a listing for a painting entitled 1972 Original Oil Painting Man with Red Umbrella signed Annamarie Trombetta. This is not one of my paintings. There is a photo of a signature A. Trombetta with the eBay logo and Copyright symbol written "Copyrighted work licensed by Worthpoint " with your company logo in yellow next to it. This is not my signature. Please see attachments.

On February 3, 2016 I spoke with Mr. Gregory Watkins. Mr. Watkins also stated that you were at a conference in Las Vegas. I asked Mr. Watkins certain questions regarding the artwork falsely attributed to me. I requested that he e-mail me his answers regarding these questions that I had about this artwork on Tuesday February 3, 2016. Today is February 20, 2016 and nothing has been forwarded to me. I have contacted eBay several times prior to contacting your company.

eBay stated that they do not have the name of the seller nor the name of the buyer or the listing for this painting. Ebay expressed several times to me that I need to contact Worthpoint since the listing is on your site..

There are still listing for Worthpoint.com under my name. Under google search for the painting "1972 Original Oil Painting Man with Red Umbrella signed Annamarie Trombetta there is a link entitled Marilyn Monroe 1988 Vintage Michael Ochs Archive and also Thomas Kinkade . 2016.

4) Who owns this painting?? The description is a damaged painting. It also states that there is a signature in RED on the back of the stretcher. This signature is outside of the photo of a signature A.Trombetta. The painting is dated 1972--Do you know how old I would have been at the time the painting has been dated?

5) Who provided you with the photo of the signature A.Trombetta? Again I assure it is not my signature.

6) The Worthpoint description of this painting states that there are 12 photos. Below is the text that is on the page for this painting. Where did you get my biography?? It is so specific it is definitely mine.

7) I did sign up for the Free Trial in order to obtain the information below. If there is a purchase price of $181.50 duly documented and listed there was a financial transaction and there should be a receipt of payment for this item. May I have this information as well?

Kindly forward any information that you have regarding this painting .

Attached is a printout from February 2016 which lists items and links that are on Worthpoint.com These items are listed with my unrelated personal and professional links. I have no association to the Worthpoint.com company---data base nor the artwork that is associated with these link. Please review. I am requesting that you kindly remove your links since they have no relation to my personal and professional credentials.

This is by Annamarie Trombetta. It is signed on the bottom, but on the back it has written in red on the stretcher, Annamarie Trombetta "Gifted" 1977, "Painted" 1972. To our eyes it looks like it is after the style of Andre Kohn. It is quite large being approx. 48 1/2" tall and 17 1/2" wide. We are calling it shabby chic condition as it has a tear in the canvas, about 5/8" long just to the left of the man's knees, but still such a great painting. For those not familiar with Trombetta, here is information about her from off AskArt as they got it from her website: Annamarie Trombetta (1963 -) Lived/Active: New York The nature of an artist's life, creativity and growth may be synonymously expressed in the image of an archetypal tree. Beginning with the earthly descendent roots the artist like the tree branches out into its surrounding environmental and celestial world. Both ascend and descend, widening their girth of consciousness while producing visual imagery, weathering each season of change. Thus, I believe it is the nature of the artist and of nature itself to regenerate and manifest. All of the imagery in this catalog was either created en plein air or from the subject directly. My journey to becoming an artist began many years ago. The consanguineous roots of my Italian family tree provided me with an innate constitution for my artistic profession. When I was a tiny seed of contemplative thought, my artistic nature began to sprout interest while gazing up at the ceiling paintings in a neighborhood church named Regina Pacis, meaning Queen of Peace. The church located in Brooklyn, NY features ceiling paintings, sculptures, marble interiors, and incorporates architectural elements for the façade and the belfry that are of Italianate design. Before the age of three I was able to surmise that the church in the ceiling painting was indeed the church I was in. The visual stimulation was a form of education. It fostered my sense of perception which became my strongest mode for acquiring knowledge. As the years unfurled, my family moved to Staten Island. At this time it was a scenic field of luminosity, lush vegetation and a harbor view complete with sail boats and small yachts. A few years after we moved my tree of life was in jeopardy of losing a limb. What appeared to be a swollen leg was indeed a cancerous tumor. It was an almost fatal or perhaps even a fated occurrence in my life. The struggle to survive the experience was lightened by my imagination and by my artistic ability to create. I seriously thought I would go into medicine but the posters and paintings in the hospital and doctor's office held my attention more intensely. I began my formal training at The Brooklyn Museum School of Art while I was in high school. The exposure to various forms of art inspired me to expand my horizons and in the early Eighties I traveled on a summer tour to Europe. The tour comprised of six countries; Germany, Austria, France, Italy, Switzerland and England. Viewing so many different cities and cultures in a concentrated period of time...
